Mohammad Javad Zarif is an Iranian career diplomat and academic. He has been Foreign Minister of Iran since 2013. He led the Iranian negotiations with P5+1 countries, which produced the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action on 14 July 2015, lifting economic sanctions against Iran on 16 January 2016. He has served as Permanent Representative of Iran to the United Nations (UN); Vice President of the UN General Assembly; Deputy Foreign Minister for Legal and International Affairs; Chairman of the UN Disarmament Commission; as well as Visiting Professor at the School of International Relations at the University of Tehran.

OVERVIEW

Given their widespread networks in different countries, terrorism and extremism continue to pose a threat to the whole world. Preventing the spread of extremism is still a priority. In this period, we face three major challenges: First, getting a proper understanding of the current realities; second, reaching a common understanding on the desired situation; and third, finding ways of reaching this favourable situation. If the challenges are addressed, it will ensure the peace of mind and security of our children. In order to reach stability and desirable security, we need to move towards dialogue and adopt confidence-building measures.
